Synopsis: Captain Angela Bobbie Robinson returns home from the Iraq war charged with delivering effects to the family of her fallen comrade. Through this disparate collection of mementos, we learn about the lives of three American-born U.S. Army combat nurses, who's vastly opposing values, collide in the most dangerous front-line hospital in Iraq. 1st Lieutenant Jeanie Crease, a rebel flag-waiving white woman from rural Alabama and Specialist Ani Mosstaghimi, a privileged Iranian American from California, lock horns with Bobbie, an older black experienced combat nurse from North Carolina.

The team soon becomes a well-oiled machine despite the many obstacles constantly in their way: relationships, rape, racism, heartache, humor, drug trafficking and death. American Promise is a film about love, loss, duty, and what it means to be a patriot in the face of generational racism.
